Wild Baja California Escape: The Whales of Magdalena Bay

FEBRUARY 23-28, 2025
ABOARD NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SEA LION

SPECIAL OFFER: 10% GROUP SAVINGS

BAJA CALIFORNIA

BOCA DE SOLEDAD

"Grand Central" for California gray whales. Together with the savvy local fishermen, we will observe numerous cow-calf pairs.

LORETO

The historic, seaside town where our expedition begins and ends. Home to Baja California's first mission, a lovely museum, and charming shops. A perfect place to experience the culture of the region.

ISLA MAGDALENA

The beaches along the Pacific coast go on for miles, unmarred by any infrastructure. Hike or run along this scenic coast for as long as you wish.

SAN CARLOS

MAGDALENA BAY

SAND DOLLAR BEACH

At this point, the distance across the dunes from the bay to the Pacific is only a few hundred yards. Search for treasures on the aptly named sand dollar beach. These dunes are a great place for sunrise yoga or sunset cocktails.

LA ENTRADA

National Geographic Sea Lion and National Geographic Sea Bird are the only ships of their kind operating in Baja California small enough to anchor in Magdalena Bay, a nursery for gray whale mothers and their calves.

Pacific Ocean

Dear Traveler,

Over 20,000 California gray whales gather along Baja California's Pacific coast in the first few months of the year, during the winter leg of what is the longest migration of any marine mammal on the planet. They come to protected, saltwater lagoons like Magdalena Bay to give birth and raise their young—and it's here that travelers can get up close to these magnificent creatures to experience one of the world's most spectacular wildlife encounters.

The gray whales are as interested in us as we are in them—at times, they will even approach our small pangas for a closer look. Our expedition aboard the National Geographic Sea Lion is timed at the peak of the season to maximize our chances of communing with these gentle giants, known as “the friendliest whales in the world.”

Traditionally, visits to Magdalena Bay have been part of longer cruise itineraries around Baja California. Now, you have an opportunity to explore this remarkable place more fully and aboard a nimble and comfortable expedition ship that can navigate the shallow waters at the entrance to the whale birthing lagoons.

From towering cardón cacti and rivers of desert blossoms to miles of pristine beaches brimming with sand dollars, Baja California's stunning coastal landscapes are also not to be missed. Hike or bike over the spectacular sand dunes by day—and even by night, when all kinds of wildlife emerge. Kayak or join a Zodiac ride among intricate mangrove channels and spot large flocks of grebes, pelicans, and frigatebirds. You'll enjoy an in-depth look at the region's sheltered habitats, both above and beneath the waves.

Blissfully remote, yet close to home, Magdalena Bay is a peaceful sanctuary for wildlife and travelers alike. To reserve your place, please return the reservation form, email or call Lindblad Expeditions at groups@expeditions.com or 833-985-1261.

Sincerely,

Caroline Davidson

The Wild Beauty of Baja California

Marine and Avian Wonders

The waters of Baja California are among the world's richest, and the sea and birdlife here is primed for performance. Picture a ballet of wheeling cormorants and diving pelicans, and the aquatic pyrotechnics of spouting whales. The National Geographic Sea Lion is perfectly designed to show you these wonders and take you deeper into more protected waters. You will be among the privileged few to enter the birthing lagoons of California gray whales for close encounters with gentle mothers and their curious calves. Playful and friendly, they occasionally approach the small boats we use for more intimate viewing.

Terrestrial Surprises

Exploring by water alone would make for an incomplete voyage—on land, equally spectacular enchantments await. Desert islands shelter species like the spiny-tailed iguana and black jackrabbit, plus a surprising array of succulents, all backed by a striated gradient of rusty reds, ochres, and olives. Pockets of green poke out from gaps in the landscape and merge into mini-skylines of massive cardón cacti, some stretching 80 feet into the clear, cerulean sky. This is the magic of Baja California, where desert, sea, and sky meet in captivating contrast—all characters in their own wild form of drama.

The Perfect Platform for Exploring

Life On Board

The 31-cabin National Geographic Sea Lion is purpose-built to explore. She and her twin ship, National Geographic Sea Bird, are the only two expedition ships operating in Baja California, small and nimble enough to anchor in the whale-rich waters of Magdalena Bay. Our itinerary draws on our expedition team's extensive experience in the region, and flexibility is their hallmark. If a flock of frigatebirds or pod of dolphins approaches the ship, we change course to welcome the encounter. After a day of exploring, you can unwind in the lounge and hear the naturalists discuss the wonders we witness each day, or visit the Bridge and watch the crew navigate these extraordinary waters.

Actively Explore Every Day

Our itinerary features activities for every skill level, with each excursion designed to immerse you in Baja California's wild wonders. Board local pangas to experience up-close encounters with gray whale mothers and calves. Paddle a kayak or stand-up paddleboard along intricate mangrove channels for water-level views. On the secluded beaches, you can roam over the sand on a fat-tire bike. After active days, kick back in the lounge and view footage of the vibrant marine life all around you, shot by an undersea specialist. Listen to whale communications on our hydrophone, and use a video microscope to examine the intricacies of seldom-seen marine life.

Travel with Inspiring Experts

A World-Class Expedition Team

Each of our guides—from our naturalists to our expedition leaders—is committed to making your experience unforgettable. We have curated this expedition team to ensure that you are getting in-depth perspectives from veteran and locally based experts who have deeply personal connections to Baja California. Exploring in small groups, you will have the opportunity to hear different perspectives every day, and because there are no group assignments, you can gravitate toward naturalists who share your interests.

Take Great Photos with the Pros

On a voyage with Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic, photography is never an afterthought—it's central to the expedition experience. A Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic certified photo instructor (CPI) joins our voyage to help you with everything from camera settings to composition. Every guest—from smartphone camera users to advanced hobbyists—can stand side by side with top photographers, pick up tips in the field, and return home with extraordinary images of Baja California's landscapes and wildlife that you can revisit for years to come.

Voyage Itinerary

Revel in the company of majestic gray whales in Mexico's Magdalena Bay, one of the best places in the world to witness interactions between gray whale mothers and their calves. On this compact trip, we'll navigate the length of the bay aboard the nimble National Geographic Sea Lion, and set out by Zodiac or local panga for thrilling, up-close encounters. Kayak through mangrove forests and hike desert islands, watch pelicans and ospreys soar overhead, and soak up the sun on some of the Pacific's most pristine beaches.

DAY 1 • Loreto, Mexico/ San Carlos/Embark

Arrive in Loreto by early afternoon and transfer to the port town of San Carlos. In the evening, embark National Geographic Sea Lion, anchored off the coast of Isla Santa Margarita. (D)

DAY 2 • Bahía Almejas/Rehusa Channel/Isla Magdalena

Our day starts in the southernmost waters of Bahía de Almejas. With luck, view a large frigatebird colony on Isla Santa Margarita, then board a local panga to explore the Rehusa Channel, where the whales tend to be very active. Later, enjoy an opportunity to pedal across the sands on fat-tire bikes. During lunch, head to Isla Magdalena on a cross-island walk over the ever-shifting sand dunes. Then take a stroll or tally treasure found on what we affectionately call "sand dollar beach." (B,L,D)

DAY 3 • Transit the Hull Canal/Boca De Soledad

Spend the morning transiting the scenic, winding Hull Canal. Within narrow channels bordered by mangroves and sand dunes, spot wildlife and hear expert commentary from our keen-eyed naturalists. Kayak or take a Zodiac inside the vast mangrove system, weather permitting. Among the birds we might see are diving pelicans and fishing cormorants, as well as terns, great blue herons, ibis, whimbrels, and willets. This afternoon, explore the whale-rich waters of Boca de Soledad. (B,L,D)

DAYS 4-5 • Boca de Soledad

Each winter, gray whales migrate south from their Arctic feeding grounds to breed and give birth to their calves in these sheltered waters.

Together with local fishermen, we'll venture out in local pangas in this area known as the "Grand Central" for California whales. On land, enjoy a walk along the pristine beaches. (B,L,D)

DAY 6 • San Carlos/Disembark/Loreto

After breakfast, disembark and transfer to Loreto's city center. Schedules permitting, choose to visit the first mission in Baja California, as well as the nearby museum. After lunch, transfer to Loreto Airport for flights home. (B,L)

Loreto + Blue and Fin Whale Experience Post-Voyage Extension •
3 Days / 2 Nights • From $1,344

Add an in-depth exploration of Loreto to your coastal expedition, and discover the region's history through its missions and villages. Visit stunning San Javier, a mission built by Jesuits in the 1700s. Explore the surrounding town, with its streets and buildings largely untouched since 1875. Then board local boats at the Loreto National Marine Reserve for a chance to see magnificent blue and fin whales, the two largest animals on Earth. Top off the journey with a hike through the fascinating canyons of the Sierra de la Gigante.

National Geographic Sea Lion

Nimble and intimately scaled, National Geographic Sea Lion can easily navigate places inaccessible to larger ships. She can venture into fast-moving channels where whales come to feed, nose up to waterfalls in secluded coves, and sail into small bays perfect for snorkeling and kayaking. Inviting public spaces foster a sense of shipboard life where everyone is integral to the adventure, engendering a rewarding sense of community.
